A SYSTEM OF SMALL SAVINGS THAT IS POPULAR IN DETROIT.

It Appeals Especially to Young Children, but Men and Women Are Also Among the Stamp Book Depositors-How the Method Is Conducted-A Boon to Many.

"The 'saving stamps' have let us into an almost new and profitable field of business," says Edwin F. Mack, cashier of the Citizens' Savings bank. "It has increased our business more in eight months than we were able to do by other methods in five years. The beauty of the arrangement is that it reaches a class of people who ordinarily have no business with any bank. When it is considered that we get this new business at the rate of less than one-half a cent on the dollar, and that this expense is more than covered by the actual operation of the system, we are pretty well pleased. "The cost of the stamps is only one cent for fifty, the cost of the books is very small, and the expense of getting the stamps in the hands of depositors is also very slight. To offset this we have the use of the money from the time it is received for stamps until the stamps are turned into us as record of deposit. The persons buying the stamps let them accumulate for weeks and even months before having the amount entered on their regular bank books. We get interest on this money for that time without charge, and as this amounts to several thousand dollars the profit is quite an item.

HOW IT WORKS. "Of course we are not philanthropists, but we take much satisfaction in knowing that the system is inducing a large number of people to save money who never did before. We have agents in many of the large factories, and the young employes after getting their pay buy a few stamps, while otherwise they would spend every dollar of their wages.

They would not come down to the bank and open up an account with the small amount. But after they have a little start with the stamp process they very frequently come to the bank with a five dollar or ten dollar deposit. We have some depositors with hundreds to their credit who made fifteen and twenty cent starts. These are the ones that are liable to be the big customers of the future, and we are very glad to have their early trade. "The corner grocerymen, who are our agents, tell how the system works. For instance, a woman goes in with $1 to buy groceries, and has five ten or perhaps twenty-five cents left, which she invests in stamps. She leaves her book with the grocer and he cares for the stamps. The children, if they have no books of their own, are instructed to invest part of the small change in stamps. Her husband, instead of spending his small change for cigars, lends a helping hand by placing a few stamps in his wife's book. "With the children the stamps are like the merit cards which you and I used to get at school. Each Sunday we got a little card and when we got a dozen of those we got a large card, and so many of those deserved a still larger and more brightly colored card. The delight of accumulating these cards you can well remember. It is the same with the children and these stamps. They hustle around until they get twenty stamps to fill a page and are much tickeled when they can make the first entry in their

"We have ninety-five agents in this city and agents in Saginaw, Port Huron and other cities. Of our thousands of depositors a large per cent, of them are children, but as many of them brought their parents with them we are well

HIGHER DENOMINATIONS.

"The stamp saving system has proved to be a very good thing for us," said E. C. Bowman, cashier of the Detroit sav-ings bank. "Unlike any other stamp system of savings, our stamps are of different denominations and different classes of customers are accommodated. For instance, we have 5 cent, 10 cent, 25 cent and 50 cent stamps, and $1, $2, $5 and $10 cards. That is to say, when a card is filled it has these respective values. Our customers have learned this, and those who make enough money so that they frequently can deposit 25 cents at a time do not bother with 5 cent stamps, which require so much 'licking' and 'pasting.' We were somewhat surprised ourselves to see the popularity of the larger denominations.

"Of course the working of the system is pretty well understood. We have 125 agents at present, and the stamps are placed in their hands. It requires several thousand stamps a day to supply their demands. The depositors place the stamps on a card, and when this card is full they get a credit on their bank book. We make the feature incidental to our banking business, and think it ad mirable because it enables us to reach every class of people who may be induced to save money. It has largely increased our business, not only by the depositors who use the device, but the people who come with them. Fully 75 per cent. of the depositors are children, and, of course, their accounts are small, but very frequently their fathers come to the banks where the children are doing

While the reporter and Mr. Bowman were in the basement of the banking building looking over the record of the stamp business, the cashier called attention to several wooden cupboards which he said contained all the saving bank books issued by the bank from 1849 to the present date. They were numbered from 1 up to 73,000. Then he showed No. 13, which was issued to a young man who was then employed on a railroad. The man is still a depositor in the bank, and there has never been a time since when he did not have a small oalance. He still has the same number, is still in the employ of the same company and ought to have a snug bit of property by this time.—Detroit News.

Will force all moisture out of wood vithout closing the pores. Will prevent shingles, coated with t, from rotting, cracking or warping.

Will prevent rope treated with it from rotting, causing it to remain pliable and excelling tar coating. Tenedos will not attack timber coated with it.

Carbolineum avenarius does not contain acids or poisonous ingredients injurious to the fibres of wood,

The following is an extract from the London "Building World:" "The directors of the Palatine Railways say of Carbolineum Avenarius: boards cut from one and the same piece of pine, one of which for the sake of experiment was painted with Carbolineum Avenarius, and the other left unpainted, were buried, and after a lapse of three years dug up and examined. The result was, that the wood to which the Carboline m Avenarius had been applied shewed no signs of decay, whilst the other was found to be in a rotting condition.' " As a wood preservative it has no equal. For -ale by
